PRESS RELEASE

Cybersmile to sit on advisory panel to APPG for Young People and Technology

LONDON, UK, OCTOBER 14, 2015 - The Cybersmile Foundation have announced their participation in the new All Party Parliamentary Group for Young People and Technology. The launch event taking place this Thursday 15th October 2015 at the BT Tower in London will bring together young people, industry leaders and members of both Houses to celebrate the launch of the new APPG. The All Party Parliamentary Group for Young People will focus on issues such as cyberbullying, digital abuse and eSafety.

“We are delighted to have The Cybersmile Foundation on board with us. They are the leading voice in the fight against cyberbullying and their experience in this field is a most valuable asset to the group. We look forward to working with Cybersmile in developing innovative and effective strategies that will help to enhance and improve the lives of young people,” - Luke Roberts, Consultant and APPG Member.

Leading figures from a host of organizations will showcase current and upcoming technology with a view to helping members of both Houses learn about the risks and opportunities that these technologies present to young people. Industry attendees include BT, Vodafone and Twitter.

The event will also feature discussions from keynote speakers highlighting the latest trends and issues and the APPG will be setting out its plans to work with the technology industry, young people, and key stakeholders such as charities and schools.

“We are honoured to have been invited to sit in the advisory group to this APPG. It is exciting for us to be part of such a forward thinking group who are dedicated to such an important issue that currently affects so many young people in the UK,” - Dan Raisbeck, Co-Founder, The Cybersmile Foundation.
